

Added to this list, as if it were not ample enough, Arms, to complete his total commitment to print making and its art, learned to make his own paper, working with Dard Hunter at Lyme Rock, Connecticut. Such ARMS paper is a subtle blue-green and he began using his own handmade paper with Palazzo dell' Angelo (233) noting "This impression printed on a piece of papier bluiaté made by me at the paper mill of Dard Hunter at Lyme Rock, Conn."
